MAYONNAISE DRESSING.

The Great Secret of a Successful Mayonnaise—Sauce Tartare—Other Dressings.

"It is astonishing what delicious salaads may be made out of nothing if the sauce is all right," says a bon vivant.

And now come directions for making a good mayonnaise, the foundation of a variety of dressings. It is from the New York Tribune:

Break the yolks of 2 eggs in a deep soup plate, add half a teaspoonful of dry mustard, a little pepper and a saltspoonful of salt. In hot weather it is a good plan to use a china bowl, which is placed in a saucepan with some pounded ice, as the colder it is the better.
Then with the back of a wooden spoon proceed to work these ingredients together, always stirring the same way, and moisten from time to time with olive oil, which should be poured on drop by drop. To do this easily a small hole should be made at the side of the cork through which the oil is allowed to escape in drops. After the mixture has been worked for a short time vinegar is added in very small quantities at intervals, like the oil, bearing always in mind that the relative quantities of oil and vinegar to be used are as five to one. This is continued until the desired quantity of sauce is made.The great secret of a successful mayonnaise is in constant working and also in avoiding the use of too much oil at once in the beginning. Impatience will spoil it. When finished, it should be of the consistency of unworked butter, and when properly made should stay on the plate when that is turned upside down.
In making a mayonnaise a little cold white sauce is well to have on hand, as if the component parts disintegrate, as they do sometimes, it may be instantly restored by mixing in a good spoonful of white sauce.This mayonnaise foundation may be treated in various ways to make different dressings. Sauce tartare is simply a mayonnaise mixed with chopped up capers or cucumber pickles. Green mayonnaise is concocted by working in some extract of spinach, which is made by pounding raw spinach to a pulp and then, putting it into a clean muslin cloth, twisting the opposite ends so as to extract all the juice. This is put on the fire until it coagulates, and then is worked through a hair sieve. A red mayonnaise is made by pounding some lobster and passing it through a sieve.Another good salad dressing, which is easier to make than thin mayonnaise, consists of the yolks of four hard boiled eggs, some tarragon, chives and parsley, which has first been blanched and then pounded together, and then mixed with the yolks of the eggs. This is then moistened with a gill of salad oil and a tablespoonful of vinegar and seasoned with pepper and salt. This mixture is thereupon rubbed through a tammy, like a puree, and is kept on the ice until ready for use. With a good dressing left over from the table will make a good salad, and if prettily served with a garnish will add an appetizing dish to the menu.
A good housekeeper once said that two courses of her well appointed daily dinner cost her nothing, the soup and the salad, and yet they were the very things that made her table seem always so well provided.

Reasons Why.

There are two reasons why people are now paying car fare all the way from Waikiki to the Palama Grocery and back. Reason 1. It is the only place on the Islands where the celebrated Salvation Army tea is sold. Reason 2. After paying car fare both ways patrons find they are money in pocket by dealing at this "live and let live" establishment. We also deliver goods between Diamond Head and Moanalua free.

No prudent housekeeper can afford to run the risk of contracting sickness, which is sure to occur, should you neglect to keep the sewers, cess-pools and outhouses in a perfectly deodorized condition.

Purifine 25c.
